

Background

The aim of the Edmonton Society for Christian Education is to provide schooling shaped by the Christian faith. The Society recognizes that educating children is primarily the task of parents who are called to nurture them in the knowledge of the Lord. The schools receive its authority from the home. Parents should have meaningful involvement in their children's education.

School councils shall exist and operate according to rules set out in the school act.

Each school council shall have a board representative who will report to the board on council activities bi-monthly.
