

The King's University President's Scholarship

The King's University sees faith-based education as integral to the renewal of God's world. In support of this significant endeavor, each year, the University offers its President's Scholarship to a deserving student from a high school partnering to deliver transformational Christian education. The award covers the entire tuition and fees for a student's first year of study at King's. (Up to 31 credits. Approximate value: $16,500.)

To receive this award, a student must be registered in at least 24 credits at King's beginning in the September immediately following their high school graduation. If a student chooses to enroll in fewer than 31 credits, while maintaining the minimum of 24 credits to remain eligible for this award, the credits remaining may not be carried forward to a subsequent year of study. Children of current King's employees are not eligible to receive this award.
